

12th July Sunday Rune and Card Reading

This morning I was drawn to use three crystal Angels to guide our readings for today. The first is Cherry Quartz, the second Honey Calcite and the third, Obsidian.

Reading no. 1 – Cherry Quartz.

For me, this little cherry quartz angel radiates energy. It feels buoyant, positive and optimistic .

Cherry quartz is said to increase our energy and bring a shift in our fortune, releasing us from any form of stagnant or stuck situation, enabling us to move forwards and to better any situation.

Reading no. 2 – Honey Calcite.

Honey calcite is a stone of leadership. It is said to raise our vibration and enable us to overcome difficulties and obstacles and to recover from any form of abusive situation. Personally, I find this powerful little angel emanates a sense of solidness, durability and resilience, which enables me to remain grounded, particularly during times of accelerated growth and upheaval.

Reading no. 3 – Obsidian.

Obsidian is known as the warrior stone. It is said to give us protection, even during periods of darkness, indeed it is often when we journey into the shadows of our unconscious that we discover deepening layers of awareness that bring us the answers we seek in order to discover new and clear direction.

Obsidian is also known as a mirror of the soul. For myself, if I am wanting to meditate into some form of journeying, seeking answers within, then this little angel is my chosen companion.